We recognise how diversity within our workplace makes significant contributions to both our business performance and in making Montana Bakery Limited a great place to work.

The Gender Pay Gap is the difference between the average (mean and median) earning of men and women across an organisation. The causes of gender pay gap can be complex but by monitoring the pay gap between men and women, organisations can better understand if there is a gap and, if so, put in place actions to address these gaps.

The data below is a snapshot taken on 5th April 2019

Our mean gender pay gap is 15.7%. This Gap arises because of unequal distribution of Men and Women across the organisation. The organisation is made up of 70% employees who are male and 30% Females. In common with other businesses and based on our experience; women and men are represented in certain roles e.g. women in production roles and men in engineering (which attracts a higher rate of pay). The gap is not due to our pay structure.

The second reason for the gap is that there are fewer women in middles and senior leadership positions that attract higher rate of pay and bonus.
